Lament for the Land

Thursday, May 22, 2014 from 3:30-5:00pm

Location: Room 7-158 | Session: HEAL4

This film weaves together the voices and wisdom of Labrador Inuit with stunning visual scenery to tell a powerful story of change, loss, and hope in the context of rapid climate change in the North.

This session will include an overview of research conducted in Nunatsiavut, Labrador on the connections between climate change, loss of livelihoods, culture, and identity, and mental wellbeing, followed by the premiere of Lament for the Land. After the film, there will be a Q & A and discussion with the Director/Producer and Inuit in the film.
